Text 1

What else can we find in the fridge? Let's see what we find in this drawer. In the front we have some tortillas. Next to the tortillas there is cheese. In the back, behind the tortillas, there is more cheese. And in the upper drawer there are lemons, there is some salad. There is a box of pizza. Next to the box of pizza there are some tomatoes and next to the tomatoes there are a lot of recipients, probably full with rests from other lunches or dinners.

What else do we have in the fridge? Above the vegetable-box there are onions. Next to the onions there is soy. Behind the soy there is a flower. This flower we eat here with tortillas. That is very delicious. Next to the soy there are lemons. And behind the soy and the lemons there is a bottle of water. Next to the bottle of water there are some chiles. Above these vegetables there is a chocolate cake I made yesterday. Behind the chocolate cake there is a cauliflower. Next to the cauliflower there is a glass of olives. And in front of the cauliflower there are some rests of cheese from yesterday's dinner.

The fridge is very full today because yesterday I went to the market. There is a lot of vegetables in the box at the bottom of the fridge. There are carrots below the mushrooms and there are chiles next to the mushrooms. There is some spinach above the mushrooms. And there are some Mexican mushrooms in front of the champignons. There are tomatoes, behind the tomatoes there is a rest of col. And that's basically all.

Today we will have a look into my fridge. Which is very full today because yesterday we went to the market. We have some milk cans, one next to the other. This is some honey next to honey there is ketchup. Next to the ketchup there are some sauces. There is juice. Next to the juice there is vinegar. And next to the vinegar there is mustard, some German mustard and there is a green salsa from Mexico.
